VIEWS OF THE NEWS

By LEONARD F. JAMES

Although the Italian election returns are not quite complete, it is quite evident that the anti-communist forces have won in both houses of the legislature, and that one more hurdle in international politics is cleared. But let us be prepared to face other hurdles, for this is only the first lap of the race. For the moment, the western forces of democracy have won time and the opportunity to consolidate a temporary gain, temporary in the sense that the Communists will not stand idly by and accept the defeat as final. For final it certainly is not. Before we examine future possible eventualities, the status of the Communist part in Italy must be clearly understood.

Largest Communist Party Outside Russia

The Communists are not an insignificant minority party to be eliminated by laws and regulations; they are a legal power to be reckoned with, still trying to win supporters by displaying the ability of other parties to bring Italy back to prosperity. They won a substantial vote in June 1946 when the country was declared a republic by popular referendum, for concurrently with the referendum there was held a general election for the Constituent Assembly which was to draw up a new constitution to go into effect on January 1, 1948. The significant factor is that party seats in the Assembly were on a proportional representation basis, as they will be in this week's election. Thus balloting is for party, and the party receives the number of seats in the Assembly corresponding to the proportion of seats for the party. Out of approximately 25 million votes in June 1946, the Communist Party received about 4,350,000 and secured 104 of the Assembly's 556 seats. Popular vote gave the Party approximately 20% of the votes and a corresponding 20%.

Cites Law For Passing School Bus

Police Chief Dane Calls
Attention of Motorists
To Present Requirement

As it is evident to police that many motorists are unaware of the law which requires them to stop before passing a school bus, Chief George A. Dane, in co-operation with the registrar of motor vehicles, issues a word of warning to all drivers in recalling the method of procedure.

When approaching a school bus which has stopped to take on or discharge passengers, the chief says, the law now requires a driver to stop immediately before passing, no matter in which direction his car is moving. Having stopped, the autoist may then proceed to pass at not more than 10 miles per hour if it can be done safely.

This does not apply, Chief Dane pointed out, when approaching from the opposite direction on a divided highway, nor unless the bus carries the "School Bus" sign.

New Appointee To Police Force

Henry E. Smith, Shawsheen
Road, Named to Vacancy

Henry E. Smith of 2 Shawsheen road, a reserve police officer, was appointed a permanent member of the force by the board of selectmen and his name forwarded to the state civil service commission for approval.

A veteran of the recent war and on the reserve list since November 24, 1947, the appointee was the top man on the list submitted by the civil service commission. He is married and was recently employed by the Tyer Rubber company. The appointment fills the vacancy caused by the resignation of Richard.

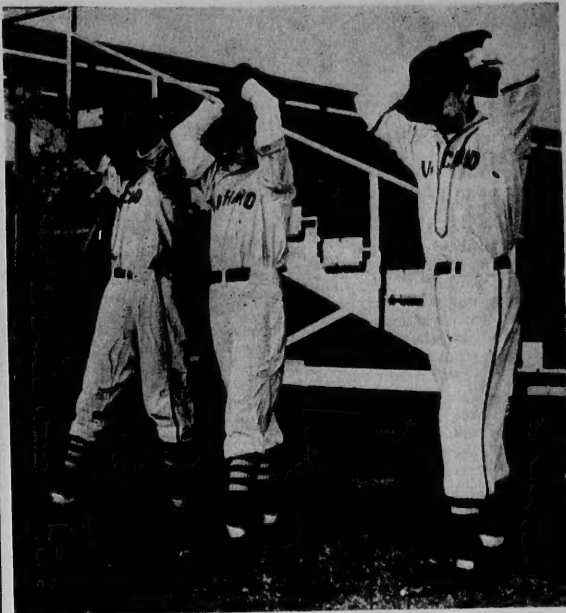

The new officer started on his duties April 19. He was assigned for the present to the 5 p. m. to 1 a. m. shift and was stationed in the square.

Woman Honored On 84th Birthday

Saturday, April 17, Mrs. Alice R. Dearbon of Elm street quietly celebrated her 84th birthday.

She has been a faithful member of the South church for many years and in honor of the occasion the deaconesses of the church presented her with a very beautiful birthday cake. She received numerous bouquets of flowers, cards and other gifts, also many of her friends called to wish her well.

Mrs. Rearbon and Mrs. Cole, who celebrated her 85th birthday on April 3rd have been neighbors and friends for over fifty years.

Punchard Wins Opener Against Methuen, 7-2

Big Inning Clinches Victory For Locals In First League Game—Track Team Starts With Win

A big fifth inning, in which Punchard scored five runs, aided the locals in whipping Methuen, 7 to 2, in the opening game of the Merrimack Valley Suburban League played at the Andover playstead Tuesday.

The Punchard lads' victory was sparked onward by the brilliant pitching of southpaw Bob Wetterberg, veteran slabman, who allowed only eight hits and mowed down eleven of the visiting players via the strike-out route.

Methuen was the first to register, due mainly to Bob Beauchese's error on Smith's grounder in the first inning. Beauchese, making his debut at the hot corner, allowed the ball to get away, and Smith went to second.

Shawsheen School On WCCM Friday

"Accent on Andover," WCCM's daily program for and about Andover, spotlights each Friday morning at 10:30 the schools of Andover. This Friday Miss Anne M. Harnedy, principal of the Shawsheen school, will speak on a subject which all parents should find interesting, that of "Teacher and Pupil Relationships".

In addition to Miss Harnedy's talk a group of Shawsheen school pupils will give selections from the operetta "Hansel and Gretel." Participating in this number will be Judy Colmer, Carol Michalski, Katherine Lloyd, Barbara Wright, Carol Emerick and Rita Esile. Mrs. (Continued on Page Twelve)

Police Wage War On Fast Drivers

Several Arraigned In Court, Others
Have Had Licenses Suspended

With a record of several drivers already arraigned in district court on charges of speeding, and more than a score more having their licenses suspended for periods of seven days, Andover police are serving notice on fast drivers that they will not tolerate such violations of the motor laws, particularly those that might lead to serious accident and injury.

"We get a lot of them on Lowell street, which is quite a winding road," said Police Chief George A. Dane, "but we also get them on other streets all over town".

With more cars on the highways than ever before, the good weather has brought out increasing lines of traffic through which the fast driver is frequently seen weaving his way in and out, often jeopardizing the safety of others.

For the past few weeks Chief Dane has had officers stationed at different times during the day in various parts of the town to curb speeders and watch for other infractions. Already several have appeared in district court at Lawrence.

Walker Dutton of the Haverhill airport, left Haverhill about 1 o'clock. While flying over Andover some 35 minutes later at an altitude of about 1000 feet, motor trouble developed, causing the pilot to make a crash-landing into the woodlands on property owned by Bert Spaulding and but a short distance from Porter's home.

Pair Held In R. I. Wanted Here

Two Massachusetts youths picked up in Rhode Island on charges of robbery, kidnapping and assault with a dangerous weapon confessed, police say, to the holdup of a Lawrence taxi driver in West Andover early Tuesday morning, April 13.

The youths were identified as Albert P. Webster, 20, of Wilmington, who had been rooming in Lawrence, and Kenneth H. Pratt, 20, of Lowell.

Assessors Nearing End of Work

Be Able To Announce
New Tax Rate By June 1

The board of assessors held a lengthy session Monday night at the conclusion of which was announced that they now have finished about three-quarters of their work.

They expect to be finished with the assessment cards about May 1, after which it will take a few weeks to make up the book, so that the new tax rate may be announced sometime about June 1.

The work of the assessors is greater this year than it has been for some time past. This is due to several causes. There have been more real estate transfers than at any time since the war, there has been much more new construction, and many more alterations.

Following the town meeting when a new high record of $1,005,593. was appropriated, it was estimated that the increased appropriations would mean an increase of about 10 percent over the 1947 rate of $33.

Free Dog Clinic Opens Saturday

The 13th annual free dog clinic for inoculation against rabies will be held Saturday, April 24, at the central fire station from 9 a. m. to noon.

On successive Saturday mornings from 9 a. m. to noon other clinics will be held when owners may bring their dogs for the treatment which is given without cost. May 1 the clinic will be held at the Ballardvale engine house; May 8 at the Shawsheen Main street garage; and May 15 again at the central fire station.

Dr. Ray S. Youmans will be in charge of the work, assisted by Lotta M. Johnson, R. N., nurse and agent.

Volley Ball

Volley ball is in full swing at the present time under girls' sports. There are about fifty girls out. The Blues are leading the tournament with the Reds and the Golds tied for second place. The Greens, although they are last, are coming ahead. The girls have played eleven games and there are seven more to be played. An all-star team, chosen from the four color teams, may play Reading sometime soon.

Cheerleaders

Try-outs were held for next year's cheerleaders in Junior High. There were about twenty-four candidates and ten or eleven girls were chosen. The judges, Benjamin Dimlich, boys intramural sports director, and Ethel Hibbert, captain of the Punched cheerleading squad.

Baseball Starts

It is really spring when practice is started for that all American game, baseball. The first practice was held Friday under the direction of Mr. Dimlich. There were about sixty-five boys who turned out. This number will soon be cut down to the best players. The first Junior High game will be held Wednesday, April 28th, in the playstead, with the Phillips Academy Juniors.

School Song

The school song was tried out for the first time in music appreciation Thursday under the direction of Mrs. Miriam Sweeney

McArdle. The words are sung to the tune of Canada's national anthem, The Maple Leaf, Forever, which many people know and is easy to catch on to. This first trial was considered very successful.

Glee Club

The Glee club period of the year has started, following the band and the orchestra. The girls' glee club was organized Tuesday and the boys' club Thursday. This group has been very successful in past years and we are certain they got off to a good start.

Homemaking

The seventh grade girls have been helping with the painting of the foods room during their homemaking periods because the refrigerator is out of order and no food can be kept to work with. As you probably know it is a six unit kitchen, and the third unit is being painted at the moment. It is blue inside and bright yellow outside. There is now a blue, a rose, and a yellow unit, which, with the room's sunny windows, makes a warm atmosphere.

Last week's centerpiece was an April Shower centerpiece. In the center of the table was a miniature doll, dressed in a blue raincoat and carrying a parasol. Pastel dishes were used throughout the table setting. This work was done by Mary Alice Shea.

This week's centerpiece is on a springish line! The center of attraction is pussy willows in a base about which pink and blue paper is twined to give it a basket effect. The china of the place settings is pink and blue also, to carry out the theme. The girls arranging this were Dorothy Dunn, Lola Castle, Lucille Sherry and Helen Glidden.

Pioneer Girls Hold Successful Food Sale

The Pioneer Girls Fortalice of the Baptist church, a newly organized branch of the National Pioneer Girl organization, conducted a food sale in the church vestry the afternoon of Saturday, April 10.

The girls participating were: Laura Thompson, Barbara Gould, Judith Nowell, Arianna Shaw and Judith Marland.

The guide, Mrs. Kenneth H. Thompson, and Mrs. Henry Birnstein, a member of the fortalice committee, supervised the sale. The sum of $17.56 was realized, which made the participants quite satisfied with their initial endeavors.

The girls meet every Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Assembly

The assembly Friday acquainted us with Pan American day. The Assembly was under the direction of Miss Alice Bisbee, ninth grade Social Studies teacher. Many of the ninth grade students participated. Selections were read on Pan American day and the two movies showed South America—one on Brazil, the other on Columbia.

Joint Assembly

A joint assembly was held Tuesday morning of this week, in which the accent was on the circus. Leon Smith, who is well known for his chimpanzee circus, showed us a movie on his trained chimpanzees, and as it was impossible for him to bring his chimpanzees, he brought two trained dogs who did some tricks for us.

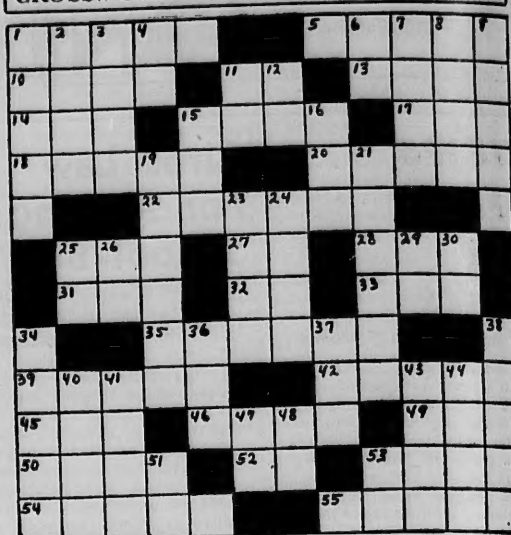

School Reopens

School reopened Tuesday after a welcome holiday. This was rather a preview of the vacation which is coming the first week in May.

Reminder

Remember to save Wednesday evening, April 28th for the Gym exhibition. The boys are practicing very hard and it promises to be a big success.

Orchestra Gives Fine Performance

The spring concert given last Sunday at George Washington hall was not only the Community's orchestra's last presentation for the season but the best performance that organization has presented to us since its inception years ago. The amateurish touch which orchestras generally have when they have no chance to rehearse regularly was notably absent in this performance; never has there been such excellent integration as the Mozart C-Major Symphony and the march at the end showed. The improvement was particularly notice able in the wood-wind section and in the strings, and George Brown, the conductor of these concerts, must have been as pleased with his orchestra as the audience was with his able leadership.

The program was enhanced by several solo performances. Rodman Rhodes and Bruce Brumbaugh gave a very creditable execution of their solo parts in the Handel violin-nata and gained well-earned applause; Robert Brumbaugh handled the trumpet solo with considerable skill and clearness of tone. The Phillips Academy Brass Choir, after some initial confusion, brought Purcell's delightful Trumpet Voluntary to a satisfactory conclusion. Madeline Olney, the solo soprano, gave proof of a very fine and promising voice, with a sure attack and nice musical sense. Mr. Edward Mallus delivered his piano solo, Grainger's "Handel on the Strand," with his usual skill and much gusto.

The audience showed its appreciation of every number by prolonged applause. It is indeed to be hoped that our orchestra, which is now blossoming to maturity, will continue to give us such good performances, and it is to be hoped, likewise, that the public will continue to support even more generously this organization which, after all, is Andover's own, and richly deserves every effort which we can make in its behalf. BOWLING

The "Piloteers" women's bowling league had a very exciting roll-off last Thursday night. The teams rolling were the Devastators and the Liberators and both teams throughout the evening were just within a few points of each other for their individual strings. The Devastators finally won the tournament with only one point advantage over the other team. The total pinfall for the teams was, Liberators 1313 and the Devastators 1314, giving the three to one advantage to the Devastators. The members on the winning team are: Mrs. T. E. Andrew, Jr.; Mrs. Paul McKinnon; Mrs. C. DeClercq; Mrs. J. J. Fagiano; Mrs. G. E. Best, captain.

Drama

The Shawsheen Village Dramatic club held their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Herbert

A. Clegg at 1 Seco street, Lawrence last week. A business meeting was held by the chairman of the group, Mrs. Walter Caswell, and during the afternoon Mrs. William Edwards read a one-act play, "The Sandlewood Box." Refreshments were served by the hostesses of the day with Mrs. Arthur Jackson at the tea table.

Abbott And Costello

Shawsheen had some very well known guests during the past weekend. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pellegrino of 9 Sherbourne street entertained Bud Abbott and Lou Costello who flew here from New York for and engagement in Lowell. They arrived by airliner on Saturday and left Sunday night for Hollywood, California. The other members of the family present to greet this well-known pair were: Joseph Pellegrino, Jr.; Mrs. Rosa Reamuto; and the Misses Mae, Josephine and Angela Deamuto.

Poster Work

The very attractive posters advertising "Ring Around Elizabeth," the spring play that will be presented by the Dramatic department of the Shawsheen Woman's club April 29 and 30 have been made by Mrs. Edward Dean of 34 Canterbury street and Mr. Hiram Young of 10 Argyle street.

Rehearsals for this play are in full swing under the direction of Roger Quinlan of Methuen and it has all promises of being a very successful comedy.

Operetta

The operetta "Hansel and Gretel" which was presented by the students of the Shawsheen school was a huge success last Wednesday evening in the auditorium of the school. All the teachers of the school and Mrs. Miriam Sweeney McArdle deserve a great deal of credit and thanks for presenting such an outstanding production. The auditorium was filled to capacity and every moment of the evening was delightful.

A great deal of credit and thanks goes also to Charles Flanagan for making and arranging all the scenery.

A party was given to the children the following day in thanks for their successful efforts by the Parent-Teacher Association.

New brides every year. New couples establishing their own homes...

More people living in New England than ever before — and a larger proportion than ever wanting telephones...

These are some of the reasons why we've been putting so much money into new construction and equipment — more than three times as much in 1947 as our yearly pre-war average.

We're still going ahead — at the highest rate ever. For only in this way can we meet New England's growing telephone needs.

Punchard Wins Over Methuen, 7 to 2

to left as Dubois tallied. Lloyd was hurt going into first base and Souter ran for him, stealing second and scoring when Smith failed to catch Krauss' throw.

Methuen tied the score in the fourth with two out. Yokely was hit by a pitched ball, and Douglas, Pirozek, and Krauss all knocked out singles which enabled Yokely to tally.

The payoff, however, came in the fifth. Ten Punchard men went to the plate with five of them crossing and sewing up the ball game. Deyermund led off with a double. Walter Lloyd went down on strikes. A fielder's choice enabled Barry to reach first and he stole second. A pair of errors by catcher Bill Bourgeois of Methuen, including interference on a "squeeze play," allowed Punchard to count a couple of runs. Mauceri went down on a long fly to left field. Wetterberg hit safely and was advanced by Dubois' sacrifice. Fred Lloyd batted a single to right, scoring Beauchesne and Wetterberg. Dubois held up at third from where he scored on a balk by Krauss. Deveau walked, but died on first when Deyermund grounded out.

Krauss, who tolled on the mound for Methuen for seven innings, did a good job in his first game. He limited Punchard to nine hits, but erratic fielding caused his downfall. He struck out eight opposing batters.

RED COAT HORSE SHOW

A tremendous amount of interest is being shown in the coming Red Coat Horse show to be held on the Dascomb Road grounds three days, May 29, 30 and 31. The proceeds are to be donated for the construction of two new dormitories at the Plum Island polo camp for crippled children. The $5,600 which is to be offered in prize money along with numerous trophies for the winners in the various events has proved an incentive to the exhibitors and already over 200 have entered their prize mounts to date.

The grounds are rapidly getting into shape under the supervision of the local Firemen's Relief Association and by show time it is expected that they will equal any spot in the east for show purposes. Prizes including an automobile, R.C.A. television receiver and combination radio-phonograph set are to be awarded lucky ticket holders.

SHEPARD ENTRY WINS HORSE SHOW LAURELS

The blue ribbon in the New England $150 feature at the Boston Horse show held April 19 at the Boston Garden was won by Judy Shepard's Lord Geoffrey, a brown gelding from the Shepard stables on Dascomb road.

The powerful 15.2 hands high entrant took a close but popular decision over Reveries Dainty Del, a chestnut mare owned by Mrs. J. R. Savoy of Springfield. Johnny Lydon, a professional rider, handled the horse in the ring.

NEW SKETCHES

The recent exhibition of work done in the class in P. Sketching conducted at the library in the late winter has been very popular. Several of contributors would have delighted at the comments by those who examined work, one of the choicest of things! All work done in class may be called for by owners at any time. At present several sketches have been loaned by Frank McCarthy, Jr., and in whom there is the faint stirring of interest in the sketching as a hobby, the library recommends a new book by Hoag "The Pleasures of Sketching," which stresses excellent therapeutic value absorbing pastime that is new understanding of the works, a decided satisfaction producing a likeness of a scene, and the thrill of this pleasure out-of-doors.

Littlest Listeners

On Wednesday morning, 9 o'clock, April 23rd, there was a Littlest Listeners group in the library, with the monthly discussion group meeting at the same hour. The tentative subject for discussion is "Rainy Diversion," but the plans are yet completed. All mother-pre-school children are invited.

Arbor and Bird Day

ARBOR AND BIRD observed on April 24th, is recognized at the Memorial Library with an appropriate play of books on both subjects. At this time it is particularly fitting to recommend a new "BREAKING THE GROUND" by Gifford Pinchot. This is a biography, completed just before his death in 1946, which is the man's whole-hearted life in forestry, and tells of a year fight to prove that forestry can produce without destroying forests. It is the story of how pinforestry came to America, how it gave birth to the movement for the conservation of natural resources. "Breaking the Ground" may be borrowed from the library.

NEW SKETCHES

The recent exhibition of the work done in the class in Pencil Sketching conducted at the library in the late winter has been very popular. Several of our contributors would have been delighted at the comments made by those who examined their work, one of the choicest being, "I didn't dream he did this sort of thing!" All work done in the class may be called for by the owners at any time. At present, several sketches have been loaned by Frank McCarthy, Jr., and are in the display case. For those in whom there is the faintest stirring of interest in the subject as a hobby, the library recommends a new book by Hoagland, "The Pleasures of Outdoor Sketching," which stresses the excellent therapeutic value of an absorbing pastime that brings new understanding of the famous works, a decided satisfaction in producing a likeness of a beloved scene, and the thrill of finding this pleasure out-of-doors.

Little Listeners

On Wednesday morning, at 10 o'clock, April 28th, there will be a Little Listeners group held at the library, with the mothers' discussion group meeting at the same hour. The tentative subject for discussion is "Rainy Day Diversion," but the plans are not yet completed. All mothers of pre-school children are invited to attend.

Arbor and Bird Day

ARBOR AND BIRD DAY, observed on April 24th, is being recognized at the Memorial Hall Library with an appropriate display of books on both subjects. At this time it is particularly fitting to recommend a new book "BREAKING THE GROUND," by Gifford Pinchot. This is an autobiography, completed just before his death in 1946, which stresses the man's whole-hearted interest in forestry, and tells of his ten year fight to prove that sound forestry can produce lumber without destroying forests. This is the story of how practical forestry came to America, and how it gave birth to the movement for the conservation of natural resources. "Breaking the Ground" may be borrowed at the library.

New Books

Among the new books added to the library are the following: THE EVERGLADES: RIVER OF GRASS Douglas Really a history of Florida, this new member of the Rivers of America series is a carefully, finely authenticated study of the influences that made the Everglades the last hope of the Florida Indians.

DONALD OF CHINA Selle William Henry Donald was an almost legendary character, who for four decades sought to knit together the great land of China and to give it dignity. Here is his story, as Earle A. Selle has constructed it from the man's talks and journals and notes, and from the observation of friends—a full story of the mystery man of the Orient.

POSTSCRIPT TO YESTERDAY

The last fifty years in America brought power, wealth, and material comforts to the people, but with it a dissatisfaction, and a loss of confidence and faith. This is a study of the parallel progress and disillusionment—a study of changes in customs, manners, and morals, in terms of journalists, writers, philosophers, religious and social leaders. Every phase of America's social growth is told through the characters exemplifying it, as a brilliant story.

All are carefully analyzed and edited by America's foremost historian—Charles A. Beard. The book gives background for the papers, and tells of the men who wrote them; it includes eighty-five of the papers that explain Federalism as a system designed to meet the needs of the people. Dr. Beard ties each paper in with the events amid which it was written.

Wedding Bells...

NANGLE—LEAHY

The altar of St. Margaret's church, Lowell, was impressively decorated with white gladiolus for the wedding of Miss Elizabeth Marie Leahy, daughter of Police Officer and Mrs. John Leahy, 50 Oakland street, Lowell, and William Francis Nangle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Nangle, 388 North Main street, Andover, Saturday, April 17, at 10 o'clock. The Rev. John T. Powers of Boston, cousin of the bride, performed the ceremony and the bride's father gave her in marriage.

Professor Guilleaume played the organ for the soloists, Mrs. George Richards and Mrs. Gerald Tatly, cousins of the bride, as they sang the hymns, "Mother at Thy Feet Is Kneeling," "Ave Maria," and "O, Lord, I Am Not Worthy."

The bride's three sisters all of Lowell, were her attendants. Elinor was maid of honor, and Marilyn and Joan were the bridesmaids. Paul Nangle was his brother's best man, and George and Roger Nangle ushered for their brother.

Miss Leahy's candlelight satin gown, with a four-foot chapel sweep and illusion veiling yoke had long, pointed sleeves. Her fingertip veil had a tiara delicately sewn with seed pearls and rhinestones. Fragrant gardenias cascaded from her arms.

The maid of honor, gowned in delphinium blue satin and wearing a hat of blue veiling made like a "dutchie" with a bow of veiling, carried an old fashioned bouquet of tallman roses. Peach

Satin gowns and hats were the choice for the bridesmaids, who carried old fashioned bouquets of spring flowers.

Mrs. Leahy was charming in a navy and white print gown with a large navy hat and gardenia corsage. The bridegroom's mother chose delicate blue for her gown and hat and complemented it with a corsage of pink roses.

There were many guests from Andover, Salem, Danvers, Lawrence, Quincy, Peabody and Pawtucket, Rhode Island, present at the reception, which was held at the Red Tavern, Methuen. The young couple will be at home at 132 Highland avenue, Lowell, on May 1 after a trip to New York City, Lakewood, N. J., and Atlantic City.

The bride, a graduate of Lowell High school, is employed as cashier at the Lowell Electric Light corporation. Mr. Nangle attended Peabody schools and was graduated from Lowell High school. He is office manager at the Dana Trucking company in Lowell.

EDITORIAL THOUGHTS

GOOD OLD N. E.

Florida is advertising itself as an all-the-year-round vacation resort, and emphasizing the fact that the rates in that southern state are lower in summer than they are in winter. One can readily believe that!

But speaking of all-the-year-round resorts, is there a place in the country that has the attractions of New England? And the attractions here are not all the same. They vary from country to seashore, with attractive large cities and many historical shrines to be seen, and they vary as to climatical conditions.

New England always has been an ideal spot for summer tourists, and it probably always will be. But in recent years it has forged ahead tremendously as a wintertime place people like to be.

There is nothing quite like good old New England!

POLITICS AND BASEBALL

In June the Republicans will hold their convention in Philadelphia, and in July the Democrats will meet for a like purpose in the same city. Both meetings will take place in the City of Brotherly Love, but not at the same time, and not because there is any brotherly love between the two major parties.

There isn't! There's not an iota of it, when it comes to putting men into office, at any rate.

Between now and the time of the conventions each party will fight it out among its own members, with the Republican pre-convention bouts many-sided, but with the Democratic contest rather dull and, to all intents and purposes, centering around a single individual who seems to believe that he is destined for four more years in the White House, but whose optimism is not shared even by a lot of members of his own party.

Whom will the Republicans nominate? Stassen? Dewey? Taft? Vandenberg? Warren?

There is only one place to find the answer to that question. The answer will come in Philadelphia next June. Presidential primaries may indicate a popular trend in favor of one candidate or another—and Stassen has been doing pretty well thus far—but it is not always the candidate who appears to be most popular who is nominated.

Several of the candidates will have strong support, and if one or more of them, realizing that his chances were waning, should swing his backing to another candidate—an out and out dark horse, even—such action might have a bearing on the outcome. If two candidates, with substantial followings, did that, it would probably be certain to pick a winner.

And it would not be the first time that such a thing has happened.

The political campaign this year is a lot like the baseball pennant races. In baseball there are two major leagues. During the regular season the National Leaguers will fight among themselves to determine which team is the champion. And the American Leaguers will do the same thing in that league.

Then, come October, the two champs will fight it out.

Now, the two major parties in the political arena—the Republicans and the Democrats—are busy fighting it out within their own ranks to determine the best man in each.

Then, come November, the voters will decide which of the two "champs" they want to put into the White House.

The Wallace third party crowd? Just minor leaguers.

DON'T FEEL SORRY FOR YOURSELF

Retailing, as various authorities have pointed out, is now a career which offers substantial rewards to energetic and ambitious people with the right kind of talent. The chain systems and large retail stores have developed extensive training courses, through which employees may qualify themselves for better jobs. Retailing is attracting many young people who like the work and can see the opportunity.

It wasn't always that way, however. Here are some of the instructions to employees issued by a store proprietor in 1870:

"Store will open at 7 a. m. and close at 8 p. m. except on Saturdays, when it closes at 9 p. m. . . Any employee who smokes Spanish cigars, uses liquor in any form, gets shaved at the barber shop, or frequents pool halls or public dance halls, will give his employer every reason to suspicion his integrity, worthy intentions and all around honesty. . .

"Each employee is expected to pay his tithing to the church. . .

"Men employees will be given one evening off each week for courting purposes, or two evenings a week if they go regularly to church and attend to church duties. . . After any employee has spent his thirteen hours of labor in the store, he should then spend his leisure time in reading good books."

Even as American retailing has enormously bettered its service to the public, it has shown similar progress in its employee relations. The 40-hour week, paid vacations, unemployment compensation and scores of other benefits were unheard of 70 years ago. That is the kind of progress that characterizes free enterprise in every field. If you feel abused under present short hours and working conditions, you are much less of a man than your grandfather was.

U.N. Facts and Faces VENEZUELA

The birthplace of Simon Bolivar—the great hero and liberator of much of Latin America—Venezuela is the northernmost country of South America. In the modern world, Venezuela has great importance as a first-ranking producer of petroleum. Coffee, cacao, sugar, coconuts and cotton other important products of the country, whose climate ranges from steamy tropics to that of lofty mountains. Agriculture furnishes a livelihood for most of Venezuela's 4,300,000 people, who live on some 352,000 square miles of land. Venezuela is represented at United Nations headquarters by Ambassador Carlos Eduardo Stolk. Venezuela's flag has horizontal gold, blue and red stripes and a semicircular row of seven white stars in the center.

COMMUNIST DANGER

People are prone to pooh-pooh Communist danger in the U. S. with the argument that regular party members only number 100,000 or less than 1% of our total population. In the world today there are seven Communist dominated countries—Russia, Poland, Yugoslavia, Rumania, Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Bulgaria. Although the total population of these countries is 264,500,000, party members only number 10,000,000.

REPORT from the State House

By SEN. PHILIP K. ALLEN

HISTORICAL COMMENT

Last week we discussed the Republican and Democratic system of election of delegates to the National Conventions. This week we will cover generally the set-up of the conventions and what occurs.

The procedure is much the same in both cases. The thousand delegates are seated in the front of the great hall, with the alternates in the rear of the room. They are grouped on the floor by states and each delegation is provided with a microphone so that (1) they can be heard above the noise, and (2) the national radio hook-ups can broadcast the whole proceeding. The temporary chairman is chosen (usually without opposition) and delivers the keynote speech in praise of his party's achievements and pointing out in no uncertain terms the sins of the opposing party. A committee, chosen by the chairman, then examines the credentials of the delegates and when this report has been adopted, a permanent chairman is elected who, incidentally, also delivers a speech and then the convention considers the party platform. These platforms are no longer taken too seriously, but the conventions at least go through the motion of considering and drafting a platform which is as innocuous as possible.

All this takes three or four days and then the delegates turn to the nominations for the office of president. Actually no paper ballots are cast, but rather a roll call of states is made in alphabetical order—Alabama, for example, first and Wyoming, last. The chairman of the state delegation or someone acting for him may make a nomination. If the state has no "favorite son," it may yield to some other state. Thus, Arizona, for example, may yield to Massachusetts and the chairman of the Massachusetts delegation proceeds to nominate his candidate, usually with a stirring address.

That nomination is then seconded with further speech-making by delegates from various states. This is obviously a time-consuming process, for the nominations and speeches may take a whole day or even two days. Quite frequently, also, there is a demonstration in behalf of a candidate whose name has been placed in nomination and a procession starts through the aisles, gathering as many cohorts and making as much noise as possible.

After the nominations have been made, the voting is done by roll call again and the chairman of each delegation announces, "Alabama, (etc.) casts its vote for so and so," or he may report a divided vote. By rule of each party, a majority is sufficient to nominate, but a clear majority is needed. Therefore, when there are several candidates in the running, it has been often necessary to take ballot after ballot. The record, we have been given to understand, is held by the Democrats who, in 1924, cast 103 ballots, spreading the vote over a nine-day period. On the other hand, Republican conventions in 1924, 1932 and 1936 made their choices on the first ballot as did the Democrats in 1928, 1936, 1940 and 1944.

After the presidential candidate has been chosen, the vice-presidential candidate is balloted for in the same way, but usually with far less trouble and quite frequently in a great hurry because members of the convention are anxious to get home.

The convention at which a president of the United States is nominated by each party is a unique affair. Frequently, inhibited political figures become uninhibited in the atmosphere of gaiety and festivity far from the close ties of home. But underneath all this, wheels move within wheels.

Next week we will try to look

Do You Know Massachusetts?

DO YOU KNOW THAT . . . The largest gains in Massachusetts' industry during the war period, measured by a comparison of the numbers employed in 1946 with those in 1939, were in the electrical machinery which gained 43,332 employees, other machinery and tools 38,241, iron and steel and their products, excluding machinery, 15,976, transportation equipment about 15,000, rubber products about 10,000, non-ferrous metal products, 9,968, wearing apparel 8,274, chemicals 6,832 . . . These eight industries account for about 147,000 of the total net gain of 178,800 in the industrial employment of the Commonwealth, as shown by a compilation prepared by the U. S. Dept. of Commerce and the Bureau of Labor Statistics . . . The Federal government's contribution toward school lunches in Massachusetts during the first ten months of this fiscal year includes more than $1,000,000 cash and 15,000,000 pounds of food . . . There are 2,005 labor organizations in Massachusetts, with a total of 591,269 union members, of which 423,634 are male and 167,635 female, as shown by a report by the Mass. Dept. of Labor and Industries for the year 1947. This is about 35% of the total employed labor force in all lines of employment where organization, with bargaining power, is feasible . . . Boston Society of Civil Engineers recently celebrated its 100th anniversary, the oldest civil engineering society in America . . . The State Planning Board has just published a pamphlet containing concrete suggestions for service by local planning boards.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY

The semi-annual meeting of the Andover Historical Society will be held at the Deacon Amos Blanchard house, 97 Main street Wednesday evening, April 28 at eight o'clock. The subject under consideration will be early American Primitives.

Bartlett H. Hayes, Jr., will be the guest speaker, assuring thereby an enthusiastic presentation—with opportunity for questions and discussion. The word "Primitives" is most inclusive but a tentative selection might well include paintings, samplers, embroideries, theorem drawings, plaster casts, carvings, weather-vanes and handicrafts of great variety.

Those who possess such interesting items are urged to bring their treasures and contribute information they may have.

Meantime the Andover Portrait project is progressing happily and a report thereon will be made. At our annual meeting in October Mr. Hayes presented the subject of Portraits so enthusiastically that we naturally turned to him for this allied subject—which includes not a few hobbies. To add to the spice of life a hobby of your own is recommended.

An exhibition of carefully selected books and pictures bearing upon the subject will be arranged by the Memorial Hall Library.

Meantime one should not forget the meeting of the Bay State Historical League which is scheduled for Saturday, in the afternoon, April 24 at Concord.

TAXPAYERS

To carry on our work in conjunction with our state association, the Taxpayers' Association needs additional members. Dues are $1 per year. Kindly make applications through Mr. Newcomb of The Andover Savings Bank.

Police Wage War On Speedy Drivers

While some drivers have been stopped and warned, the names of many others have been forwarded to the registry of motor vehicles for infractions, and since the first of the month more than a score of local motorists have had seven-day suspensions of their licenses.

In forwarding the names to the registry Chief Dane sometimes sends them along without recommendation for action, but if the operator has done something to warrant it, the chief will recommend suspension.

At times the registry will take independent action on some of the names submitted, as they find that their records show the driver to have committed some infractions in other places and the combined offenses are sufficient to warrant a temporary suspension.

Local officers are also busy correcting other infractions of the motor laws and are daily tagging cars in various parts of the town for failure of operators to comply with traffic regulations.

The U. S. Navy and the Marine Corps now have 5,793 planes in an active status with an additional 8,245 in storage or otherwise in reserve.

ABBOT NOTES

All energies are bent upon the Abbot Birthday bazaar which takes place Saturday May 8, beginning at 2 p. m. One of the main features will be the 17th century tea room, which will attract attention because of the costuming, and the background and the 17 century atmosphere which is to be created under the direction of Miss Elaine Dodge, teacher of homemaking and domestic arts at Abbot. Booth Director, Miss Barbara Humes, reports that new items will be added this year, including a Children's booth, offering knitted things for infants, and toys and books for the youngsters.

In the meantime the upper classes will have a trip to Boston to see Katharine Cornell in "Antony and Cleopatra" and on Sunday will attend a Boston Symphony concert.

On Wednesday, April 28, Abbot Academy will entertain the annual meeting of District 1 of the Cum Laude society. District 1 includes member schools in the vicinity, both schools for boys as well as girls' schools. The following schools are members in District 1, and are eligible to send delegates to Abbot Academy for the meeting: Phillips Academy, Brooks School, Deerfield, Exeter, Gov. Dummer, Hebron, Kents Hill, Kimball Union, Lawrence Academy, Mount Hermon, St. Marks, Tilton, Vermont Academy, Wilbraham, Williston.

The speaker at Sunday vespers will be the Rev. Howard Rubendall, headmaster of Mount Hermon school, Mount Hermon.

Mariam Sweeney McArdle will be accompanist.

One of the features of the program will be the items of school news which will be given by Gail Thompson and Robert Hesse, sixth grade pupils of the school.

Behind the scenes at WCCM on Fridays the enthusiasm and general excitement of the Andover school pupils who participate in "Accent on Andover," bring a note of freshness which is a joy to observe. Five minutes before "Air Time" these potential radio artists display all the nervousness and anticipation of any professional performer just before curtain time. But the minute they go on the air, they assume all the calm and assurance of veteran troopers.

WCCM is pleased to make time available on their "Accent on Andover" program to any civic or social club in Andover that has a message of public interest. It can be heard daily over WCCM, 800 on the dial at 10:30 each morning.

Two Slightly Injured In Crash-Landing of Plane

John Lynch of Vine street told police he observed the plane just before its downward plunge and heard the motor sputtering. One wing was knocked off the two-seater as it struck the ground. It was removed later.

Police were notified and Sergeant David Nicol investigated.

Engine 1 of the fire department went to the scene with Deputy Chief Albert Cole, Sr., and Fireman Gordon Coutts, together with the ambulance. The services of the fire apparatus were not required but Benjamin Brown, ambulance attendant, treated both injured men at the scene. The state police barracks were also notified and two officers were dispatched to the scene.

Bonner is a veteran of the recent war. Before his enlistment he was employed by the United Aircraft Corporation of East Hartford, Conn. He expects to rejoin the Army shortly.

Joint Assembly

For the last joint assembly of the year, the students enjoyed Leon F. Smith and his chimpanzee circus. The circus part was a colored movie which Mr. Smith took when he had fourteen chimpanzees. The animals did all the regulation stunts that human beings ordinarily do in a regular circus. After the movie, Mr. Smith brought on his trained dog, Suki, who danced and played all the instruments in a one-man band.

Barnard Essay Contest Finals

The finals for the Barnard Essay contest will be held in the Memorial Auditorium at eight p. m. Friday evening, April 23. The contestants will give their essays, which they have memorized, at that time. The following members of the faculty have been coaching the eight students: Mr. Kellmurray has been coaching Joan Gallagher and June Steinert. Mr. Gregory has been coaching Sebastian Cavaliero. Miss Fox has been coaching Jeanne Kenney. Miss Smith has been coaching Judith Napier. Mr. Hart has been coaching Polly Black. Miss Hawksworth has been coaching Marjorie Harshaw and Mrs. Carter has been coaching Elizabeth Lloyd.

This program is open to the public. Last year there was a very small attendance, but the faculty and the contestants hope for a better showing on the part of the public this year. The other prize speaking contest at Punchard was made a regular assembly because of lack of interest; we hope the same thing will not have to be done with Barnards. It will be a very interesting assembly, and we hope to see you there.

Valuable Animal!

A man arranged to have his aged mother cared for in a nursing home, where he visited her twice a week. Each time he brought her a special lunch of delicacies from the farm, including a thermos bottle of fresh milk in which he slipped a little brandy—on advice of the family doctor. The old lady always was delighted with the lunches, and she said gravely, "Oh, Larry, don't ever sell that cow!"

of the seats. It must therefore be realized that the Communist Party in Italy has, to date, the same political and legal rights as the Democrats and Republicans in the United States. The power of the Communists was strengthened when they and the Socialists formed a 'unity of action' pact, with a total of 219 seats as against the 207 of the de Gasperi party, the Christian Democrats. However, de Gasperi's government retained a majority with the support of other parties (of the 20 parties, 8 are important), and so did not have to give the Communists any seats in the Cabinet. So it must be appreciated that whatever may be the political situation arising out of this present election, the Communist Party will continue to exist while its program can capture votes.

Which Way Italy?

Now let us examine the political possibilities in Italy. First, if conditions fail to improve, the Communists will have little difficulty in winning adherents from the dissatisfied. For they will argue, and with some justice, that the election result was more a bid for continued American support than a vote for democracy. Letters from thousands of American relatives, food from the land of fabled plenty, and the fear of losing American aid played their part in determining the vote. The appeal of the Communist party is practical, and it identifies itself with the welfare of the common man with its promises of land for the landless and the oppressed farmer, ownership of factories by the urban worker, jobs for the unemployed, and food for the hungry. That side of the program appeals to people who have always been poor, who live in a land where adject poverty brushes shoulders with black-market wealth and luxury. Yet the individualistic, devout Catholic that is the Italian by nature is not a communist, and he is still weighing the promises of the Communists against the oppression that he has seen in communist-controlled Czechoslovakia. But Communists may decide that time is on their side, and that outside help will not remedy the situation. As a legal party, they can still become a majority.

Civil War?

The second possibility is that the Communists feel they cannot afford a further loss to their prestige, and that action must be taken soon. Italy might become a second Greece, with the northern part seceding from the official government and setting up its own communist state.

The party has at least 70,000 trained fighters, ex-partisans and ex-soldiers, who could seriously disrupt the country and seize the north. Assistance could trickle across the border from Yugoslavia in the form of guerillas and so-called 'international' brigades, sponsored by no country but causing the same trouble as in Greece. Success could very well be doubtful, and in the long run the Communists could be defeated. But the effect upon the country's economy could be disastrous. Industry would be disrupted, foreign capital would be discouraged, and more Italians could be converted to communism, as a last refuge born of poverty and despair.

Russian Intervention?

The third possibility is deliberate and open assistance to the Communists by Russia which, as is seemed at the time, deliberately antagonized the Italians by refusing to countenance the return of Trieste, and vetoed Italy's application for membership in the United Nations. Russia may have decided that a free election was doomed, from their point of view, and that force would be necessary. Should this eventuality transpire, the United States must either watch Italy's integration into Russia's political world, or else give every assistance to keep Russia out. The next few weeks may very well show just how far Russia is prepared to go.

Importance of the Marshall Plan

The fourth eventuality is the one which the United States must gamble on. If the Communists cannot succeed by force, if they are prepared to win adherents by peaceful means, and if Russia does not desire to precipitate what would become a world war if she openly assists the Communists, then the United States must spare no costs to bring Italy back to prosperity. The majority of the Italian people have indicated that they do not want the restrictions, the repression and the violence that lurk behind the glittering promises of the Communists. They perhaps realize that democracy can offer not only more in practical gains than can the Communists but also decency, freedom, and rights for the individual. We in the United States know this is so. It is up to us to prove it to the Italians without delay. For it must not be forgotten that the election has not of itself solved serious problems that the former de Gasperi government inherited from the past, problems that the next government will also inherit. Italy has always been a poor country, never raising enough to feed its people, yet with few of the raw materials which could be exchanged for food. The difference between the large costs of importing food and the small income from her exports was, before the war, balanced largely by the money earned in 'invisible exports' of services to tourists and the use of merchant ships by foreigners. The war knocked out those sources of food-money, caused a severe shortage of coal because she could not pay for it, which in turn resulted in a breakdown of industrial production, unemployment, and a lowered standard of living for the majority. The value of money fluctuates so that business cannot afford investment and expansion; an employment-freezing decree which forbids the dismissal of workers even though jobs are non-existent scares off foreign capital that foresees profits eaten up by non-productive labor; and factory management committees, a hold-over from earlier days, can easily become Communist-controlled.

The United States must supply Italy with credits to purchase essential coal, food, and necessary machinery. The American government can justifiably request the Italians to stabilize their money, to balance the budget, and try to clear up graft and inefficiency. When that is done, private capital can be expected to invest in a politically stable Italy, which will in turn be able to revive its industries, its valuable tourist trade, and thus be well on the way to recovery. Two alternatives face Italy. She can be
